CARMEL "CASHES IN" ON CARNIVAL

*Haste thee, Nymph, and bring with thee
Jest and youthful jollity,
Quips and cranks, and wanton wiles,
Nods and becks, and wreathed smiles,
Such as hang on Hebe's cheek,
And love to live in dimple sleek;
Sport that wrinkled Care derides,
And laughter holding both his sides.
Come and trip it as you go,
On the light fantastic toe.*

—Milton

WE take great pleasure in chronicling the birth of Miss "New Community Spirit." She was born last Saturday, all in the sweet May sunshine. Her real name is May Fete, and the doting parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arts and Crafts, are doing fine. This lusty infant is really a reincarnation of the "Old Community Spirit" that we have lately talked about so much. It looks as if the child will grow and thrive and be a credit to us, if it is fed upon plenty of the "milk of human kindness."

The old fellow who mixes the weather stew forgot his grouch and gave us nothing but great gobs of sunshine; he cleared the atmosphere of everything but the fragrance of the May flowers and the pine trees, and he took out of everybody's heart all thought of feuds and misunderstandings and peevishness. The day called for play and we all played with joy and abandon. No one rode a hobby but Johnny Bartlett. Why, even Bobby Burns forgot his dignity and put on one of Ivy Basham's aprons and danced a Highland fling in one of the ruts of Ocean avenue, but who could help but act foolish when we had a real band (and bandmaster) to inspire us with a "concord of sweet sounds." Mr. E. V. Sorensen was the bandmaster, and we have Colonel J. M. Jenkins of the Eleventh Cavalry to thank for the band.

The loveliest things about the carnival were the unpremeditated. Perry Newberry didn't know that he was to be town-crier, but he was. He circled the May-pole, accompanied by Hal Bragg, the village clown (as usual), and called out his announcements and the program of the day. It was the motif of the day's festivities—the link that bound everything together in a riot of color and action and jollity.

At five o'clock in the morning, the Gypsy Beggars grabbed Jerry Morrow and went out to gather wild-flowers for the Soldier Memorial decoration. At two o'clock the next morning they went home from the dance tired and happy. These beggar girls furnished a great background of color during the entire carnival and incidentally helped to put a lot of shingles on the roof of our forthcoming Little Theater, for the beggars were charming and the people responded with anything from a ten-cent piece to a shining silver dollar.

Katheryn Overstreet and Mrs. W. A. Swain (Gyp, the Blood) appeared in the parade driving an ancient relic which might have been in the vanguard of an immigrant train of the 49's. Later, Gyp the Blood, Mrs. Humphries and Dr. A. E. Burton told fortunes to swell the day's receipts. Marian and Genevieve Daniels were active members of the Gypsy outfit, and Edith Chilver, feeling that the crowd needed at least one bold bad man, donned a fierce mustache and cavaliered the girls. Hilda Argo had a hand-organ and a monkey; the monk didn't have much pep, but Hilda and the organ made up for the lack.

The collective heart of Carmel just stood still with joy when Grand Marshal Grace McConnel and Donald Hale started down the billowy way to the music of the Presidio band. In the mounted party were Helen Van Riper, Katherine Cooke, Phyllis Overstreet, Bonnie Gottfried, Betty and Alice Green and Charis Boke. There were several farmers from Carmel Valley and the Coast and some cowboys from God knows where, one of them picturesquely draped in Nile green, and Kamuela Searle, the sculptor, who entered into the spirit of the occasion and did all kinds of stunts with his horse. Due to the foresight of our fire laddies, the street had been sprinkled the night before, making progress a pleasure.

The school children made a gala showing and as usual received the greatest applause. Ichabod Crane paid us a visit on his historic horse (only this time it was a donkey). At a distance it would have been hard to tell whether he was riding or walking. He seemed to have trouble in propelling his fiery steed, but with the assistance of about a dozen small boys, he managed to travel the parade length.

At the conclusion of the parade, "Doc" Kibbler mounted the memorial platform, and in a fine burst of oratory crowned our first May Queen, Irene Gould. Very girlish and sweet she looked in her white organdie dress and her garlands of flowers, and very appropriate and suitable it was that the little lady to whom we paid honor should have been born and brought up in our midst—one of our own girls in our beautiful city of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

The May-pole dance was managed by Jeanne Burton, as was also the country dance. Both were picturesque and colorful and attracted much interest. Then came the long program of athletic events in which the boys and girls shone.

During the afternoon the streets were thronged with those who were interested in the dog show, the baby show, DeNeale Morgan's silhouette booth, where you were "done" in black-and-white, and the fortune-telling booths. The grab-bag sold out early.

The baby show was one of the most popular of the events. Never again will Stella Guichard offer such an exhibit; never again will her windows display such peach bloom. There were all sorts of babies—fat babies, crowing babies, little babies, husky babies, and crying babies; everybody loved them and wanted to see them. Garnet Holme elbowed his way for admission until there wasn't much left of him but mangled remains, and Tom Reardon liked the show so well that he paid thirty cents and ran the gauntlet three times. Fond ma-mas and proud pa-pas were in evidence, and those whose offspring did not capture prizes were good sports. Jane Elizabeth Walker, June Lewis, Lawrence Leidig Jr., and Fordre Frates were the blue-ribboners.

Every bow-wow in Carmel except Teddy Gould was washed and

LATE ITEMS

Dave Thomas, from Oakley, Idaho, is a guest of Lynn Hodges.

Earl Grimshaw and Sterling Tolton of Beaver City, Utah, are guests of the Hodges family.

Richard Bentinck is once more with us and is rapidly recovering his health.

Among the out-of-town people who were here for the May Carnival were Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Jacques of Santa Barbara.

Carmel sojourners for a fortnight are Mrs. Grace B. Worth and two daughters of Brookline, Mass. They are charmed by Carmel.

Among last week's Berkeley visitors here was Mrs. Caroline Hollis, one time resident Carmelite. She was the guest of Miss Helen W. Parkes.

Mrs. Eldridge and daughter, Miss Helen, who have resided here for several months, have returned to their home in the Claremont district, Berkeley.

Mrs. J. G. Hooper and daughter, Mrs. Chateau Johnson, are here from Francisco, the former to open her home here for the summer and the latter for a week's visit.

With a competence obtained by years of unremitting toil, Pon Sang sails shortly for his home in China. Many a Carmel housewife will sigh often for the services of Sang.

Mrs. J. P. Le Count, Mrs. G. R. Sloan and Mrs. Le Count's daughter from Palo Alto, are in one of Miss Parkes cottages on Camina Real. They are intending to stay a month.

Mrs. Jessie Ives has gone to San Francisco to meet her daughter, Miss Alice, from Seattle, who will return here. Later, Mrs. Ives' married daughter of Los Angeles, will join them here.

Hi School Pupils on the Boards

Carmelites who journeyed over to the high school last Friday evening were well rewarded for their trip. The students of the school put on four one-act plays—each of them entirely different in theme and action, and they were exceedingly well done. Miss Ruth Radcliff, who coached the plays, is to be congratulated upon the excellent and finished manner in which the offerings were presented.

The reputation of Carmel as a center of dramatic effort was upheld by the fine acting of Constance Heron, Phyllis Overstreet and Belknap Bates.

Anniversary Dance

Invitations are out for a dance next Tuesday evening, May 23rd, at Hotel La Playa, the occasion being the ninth anniversary of the opening of that hostelry.

Nine years ago it required courage and much faith to launch such an enterprise as Mrs. Agnes D. Signor had in mind. Hard work, fair dealing, initiative and love of Carmel have made La Playa what it is. With the assistance of Harrison Godwin in the management of the hotel, still greater strides will be made.

groomed and manicured for the eventful day. They yelped and barked and growled as they were petted and admired. The prize-winners were Freddie Yates, King, Kuster, Tiny Arne and Brownie Overstreet. The latter won a prize for being the best behaved dog in the show, and then went right out and started a scrap with the first canine he encountered. Young Bill Nye was a very efficient master of the kennels. They "trembled with fear at his frown."

The evening started with the dramatic entertainment at Arts and Crafts hall. "Will o' the Wisp" was poetic, full of a delicate imagery. The acting was well sustained throughout. Tom Cator, Muriel Eastman and Janie Johnston gave some musical numbers between acts which were very well received. Herbert Heron's arrangement of the ragsman scene was another winning number. Those who attended were surprised and delighted at the cleverness of the presentation. In voice, looks and manner, even in height he was the merry old villain himself.

Next came the Grand Ball at Manzanita Hall. As the crowd gathered out on the street waiting for Bill Nye's dust to settle the town mounted the Ocean Avenue platform and cried his last cry. It had to do with the Signless Scenery slogan recently started by the Pine Cone and he announced that in an effort to start a State wide campaign to preserve the beauty of our highways, the signs formerly belonging to the Mission Tea House would be burned. At the dramatic moment "Togo" Fisher set fire to the signs and then he in turn rose to remark. He didn't say much. The one high light on his speech was that he knew when to quit.

The grand ball was a potpourri of jazz music, radio music, confetti, serpentine, balloons, pretty girls and white-trousered gentlemen. Our own "Evangeline" led the grand march with Queen Irene. Everybody got well acquainted before the dance was over, a confetti fight winding up the affair.

It was the end of a perfect day.

Day's Sports Finish with Two Spectacular Ball Games

As part of the May Fete doings, Carmel's new playground on Ocean Avenue was opened with two games of playground baseball. The Reds and Blues of Sunset School met in the morning as the first feature of the day's athletic card. The Reds took the game 15 to 11. The score:

For the wind-up of the sports program, Sam Browning's Poison Oaks and Jack Williamson's Wood Ticks tied into each other, the former team winning 19 to 15. Harrison Godwin, pitching for the winners, held his opponents to six runs in six innings, turning them back runless in the first three and the last frame he worked.

Long hits by Williamson, Godwin, Bill Machado, Bragg and Browning, lots of action on the bases, and some stunt fielding, furnished plenty of entertainment. The score:

MAKE IT AN ANNUAL EVENT

The Pine Cone is in hearty and enthusiastic accord with the suggestion that Carmel have an annual May Fete. The thorough success of last week's affair was a great thing for the town. It has established new social relations, cemented old ones, and united various elements which heretofore moved on different planes. In together.

Due to the importance of the event, the Pine Cone has given it unusual space in this issue.

TURN ON THE LIGHT

Accomplishment, efficiency, cooperation and good feeling will be promoted by the announced purpose of our city board of trustees to give, as much as lies in their power, full publicity to all its acts, proposed acts and legislation by the board and city officials having to do with municipal affairs. There has been general complaint heretofore that the usual publication of legal notices did not afford the tax-paying public sufficient information. It is for this reason that the board has made its new resolve. Excellent!

A REAL PROBLEM

'Twere better if some parents did not send their children to high school and the university, if the sole product of these institutions is to be an increasing number of impossible young snobs, who seem to assume that it is a mark of culture to insult their elders and social equals. These things have been noticed in Carmel, but it is only just to say that it is not peculiar to this place. Parents and school authorities should grapple with this problem.

IT WOULD BE A BIG JOB

Suggestion is made that San Carlos highway, from Fourth avenue, through the business section and on past the public school, be widened. It is argued that vastly increasing auto traffic makes this improvement almost imperative, not only because it will reduce auto accidents to a minimum, but will also make it safer for pedestrians, especially school children.

Miss Grace Graves who has been the guest of Miss Ada Kent, has left for her home in Grand Rapids.

tored to San Francisco last Monday, accompanied by his sister, Mrs. Chamberlain.

Col. W. F. Whitmore and wife were Highlands last week. The Colonel is in charge of the highway commission of New Jersey.

Duffy Abrams, eminent engineer, of the materials research laboratory, Lewis Institute, Chicago, was a Highlands visitor last week.

Highland guests last week were Mrs. Harris Harker and her brother, James Herson of San Francisco. They have left for La Jolla.

Mrs. Edmond O'Neil, whose husband is a professor of chemistry at the University of California left Thursday after a week's delightful visit.

Mrs. Merwin and Mrs. Robert Morris of Milford, Conn., have been at Highlands Inn for several months and are leaving shortly for their home in the East.

Juliet Wilbur Tompkins, novelist, has been visiting her sister Miss Elizabeth Tompkins, prominent in educational work in women's colleges in the East.

Word has been received from Wm. J. Ritschell at present in Papeete, South Sea Islands, that his visit so far has been delightful and that he is looking forward to doing some wonderful work before his return.

Some one emptied a large pot of bluing into the old Pacific the other day when I was out at the Highlands. It wasn't very thoroughly mixed for here and there were little white-caps and in the inlets were streaks of Maxfield Parrish purples and translucent glacier greens. It was a great day.

Mrs. N. W. George and her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Bartholomae returned last week from their trip to the Southland. Amongst other places they visited in Ojai Valley, near Santa Barbara. Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomae expect to leave very shortly for their home in New York.

Kathryn McDonald, with Bryant Washburn as the leading man, is filming "White Shoulders" at the Hotel Del Monte. Two years ago the same company filmed "The Turning Point" there.

Ira Remsen, writer, dramatist, painter is making a prolonged stay at the Highlands, where he is doing considerable painting. He is the son of Ira Remsen, president emeritus of Johns Hopkins University, and a noted authority on chemistry.

Garnet Holme was a week-end visitor here, arriving in time for afternoon and evening fete events. He departed for San Francisco on Sunday morning. He returns to Carmel next week to remain some time. He will produce "The Piper" on Mt. Tamalpais next Sunday.

Kamuela Searle was a carnival visitor. He has been spending a few weeks in San Francisco and vicinity, engaged in modeling the head of Luther Burbank, which is regarded as one of the most successful pieces of work he has thus far produced.

It is understood that Dan Totheroh's "Wild Birds," which took the prize at the Greek Theater some time ago, has been censored and withdrawn from production—at least temporarily. Susan Glaspell was one of the judges who awarded the prize. Mr. Totheroh is also the writer of "Tamalpais," produced last season on Mt. Tamalpais. He is to assist Garnet Holme in the Mission play which will be given in Carmel this summer.

Er Richardson of San Francisco with his wife and family has been staying at Pebble Beach for some time. Mr. Richardson is an expert on the designing of architectural tiles and has been supervising that work on the new Poole residence at Pebble Beach. He made several trips to Carmel recently and is much interested in the architecture of the Mission Carmelo.

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

REVIEW OF BOOKS IN CARMEL LIBRARY

By Ann Burroughs

TWO SECOND NOVELS

It is intimately splendid when such a well done novel as "The Noise of the World" by Adriana Spadoni comes from our midst. "The Noise of the World" is interestingly and masterfully written. It has a mature grip both of facts and technique; it has a wealth of background from which Miss Spadoni does not deluge us with details, but from which she draws her pictures and facts with a sureness of touch possible only with intimate and full experience.

The scene is laid in San Francisco, a New Yorkish San Francisco. The plot concerns itself with the compatibility of two young married persons who, even as their mothers and fathers before them, find that the communion of the first few weeks of marriage does not obtain after the first several months. The problem of the novel is to achieve an adjustment. It is sad, but perhaps inevitable and all too typical that the adjustment made is not a high-vision-fired one.

The chief interest of the novel after the two main characters are the clear expositions of the two sides of the shields of the Social Revolution and of Christian Science. That Miss Spadoni's sponsoring of these important movements is not definite was a bit disappointing. If one plays with fire and is not burnt, the experience is not memorable. However, one will remember with respect the fiery sincerity of Black Tom, the revolutionist, and the peace of Charlotte Wells, the Scientist.

"The Briary Bush", Floyd Dell's second novel, however, does not fulfill the slight promise of his adolescent first, the too loudly heralded and too quickly dead "Moon-Calf". "The Briary Bush" is even more oppressively adolescent than the first in that the theme, taking the youthful Felix Fay into his twenties, might be expected to give the hero a suggestion of budding maturity. And one might expect of the novelist a detached interest in his puppets and the beginning of a masterly technical control. But one looks in vain for these qualities in "The Briary Bush". Felix Fay at twenty-five is as childish and as self-absorbed even though as breezy as one feels the young novelist to be. And the novel is cluttered with unilluminating side issues and side details, subjects for many excellent essays.

I suppose that we should rejoice in the author's breeziness and assurance and pray, for the sake of American letters, that he and his youthful brother litterati may, before they become wealthy and middle aged, discover that masterpieces before 1919 and 1920 had a technique and understanding with which they show but slight acquaintance, but which they may study with profit.

High School Bond Election

Alice MacGowan, Etta M. Tilton and DeNeale Morgan will compose the election board at Sunset School on Wednesday, June 21st, when an election will be held to vote $100,000 bonds to finance additions, alterations, furnishings, etc., for the Monterey Union High School. Precinct 6 embraces Sunset, Carmelo, Bay and Tulareitos school districts.

Those who are not registered for this important election, have up to and including next Saturday to get their names on the great register, at the Pine Cone office.

Elks to Give Show

Everybody knows the reputation of the Elks, collectively and individually, for doing acts of kindness.

Everybody also knows that it takes mazzima to make these good deeds go round.

In order to raise funds for welfare work, the Monterey Lodge of Elks are giving a show at the Monterey Theatre tomorrow night. John B. Ratto, famous American entertainer, heads the bill.

Don't be conspicuous by your absence. Ernie Schwenenger sells the tickets.

The wedding of Miss Vera Hodges of Carmel and Frank Enos of Monterey took place this morning in Monterey, Rev. R. M. Mestres being the officiating clergyman. Miss Lola Hodges was bridesmaid and Ferdinand Enos best man. The young couple will reside in Monterey, where the groom is in the butcher business.

A MEMORIAL TO MY SON

I thank all my friends of Carmel for their sympathy extended to me in my grief. I also desire to correct false statements made in the newspapers of San Francisco and Berkeley at the time of my son's death.

James Lawson had gone to the vicinity of Columbus avenue to meet important men connected with the Admiral Line, as he had that afternoon received a flattering offer connected with their shipping affairs. He was engaged by them partly on the strength of his uncle's friendship with the president of the concern and partly on account of his own charming personality. These, together with his knowledge gained previously from service in the United States navy and his experience as a seaman in a boat around the world, qualified him for the position.

In his happy mood with such bright prospects, he was whiling away the time until his meeting with another member of the shipping board. With him was a Berkeley boy friend, a member of one of the oldest and most respected families there. The young men passed a soft drink establishment and James slipped and fell to his death.

He passed away without pain, his smiling lips almost speaking of some radiant beauty unknown to us. His many friends of Berkeley and San Francisco showered on him gifts of marvelous flowers, such as only the spring of California can produce, and my dear Jimmy went with them to the River Letha.

His Mother and Friend,
Ludovica Lawson

Just Travelin'

Misses Frances Nabut, Barbara Druss and Gladys Karr arrived in Carmel last Thursday from everywhere. A year ago they started from New York with the intention of hiking across the continent, and they did it. It took them about six months. They took the central route and visited Chicago, Omaha, Yellowstone Park and many other places of interest. They took short trips through Marin County and Yosemite Valley and are now on their way to the southern part of the state. They are quiet cultured girls of unusual attainments. Miss Nabut was on the publicity committee for European Relief with Hoover. They expect to use the same means of locomotion on their return trip to the Eastern Coast.
